PART 6 HOW WAS THE DAVIDIC LINE CONTINUED UNTIL CHRST? SEE FIG 6

The Bible tells us how the Davidic line was continued to Christ.

If you look at Mat.1:11-12, you see that the Davidic line was continued through Jehoiachin, called Jeconiah in Matthew, not through Zedekiah's daughter. Jehoiachin had reigned before Zedekiah for only three months and was taken captive by Nebuchadnezzar to Babylon where he died. It was prophesied that “no man of his (Jehoiachin’s) seed shall prosper, sitting upon the throne of David and ruling any more in Judah.” (Jer 22:24-30). Thus, his son never wore the crown nor ruled in Jerusalem. But he is nevertheless listed in Matthew 1 as continuing the lineage of David until Christ. This was the lineage of Joseph the husband of Mary.

Luk 3:23-38 gives the lineage of Mary. She is descended from Nathan, another son of David. These two accounts show that it wasn’t necessary for the Davidic lineage to have a direct line of enthroned kings all the way back to David. They show that it does not matter through which route the lineage from David came to Christ, whether through Nathan or Jehoiachin. But the fact remains that their lineage is listed in the Bible all the way to Christ and Zedekiah's lineage through his daughter is nowhere listed in the Bible.
